Facility Access Guidance for NEXCOM Contractors

Many federal facilities, including Navy facilities, are requiring COVID vaccine attestation and/or testing as a condition of facility access. Contractor employees whose duties require access to federal facilities may be asked to produce written attestations that they are fully vaccinated against COVID-19. Those who refuse or are unable to attest to their vaccination status may be required to produce a recent negative COVID test, or they may be denied access.

NEXCOM’s contractors are contractually required to abide by any federal facility access requirements. Therefore, if a base/location has implemented any COVID-related attestation and/or testing requirements as a condition of base/facility access, then NEXCOM’s contractors and their employees are contractually obligated to comply.

NEXCOM advises all contractors whose work entails access to federal facilities to contact their local Contracting Officer Representative or Point of Contact to obtain information on the access requirements for that specific facility(ies).
